Greek Journal of Religious Education

www.gjre.gr/en/

The Greek Journal of Religious Education (GJRE) is an international peer-reviewed journal published in Greece by the KAIROS-Greek Theological Association for the improvement of the Religious Education. It publishes articles in Greek and English on Religious Education and Education.

The aim of the journal is to develop and promote internationally, research, study and dialogue on Religious Education based on the axis of Religious Education, theological, philosophical, social / political, ecclesiastical / religious and cultural approaches.

It also holds interest for other issues from wider fields such as Education Sciences or relevant fields such as Intercultural Education, Ethics, Education on Values, Citizenship, Education for Peace and Human Rights, Education for Democracy, Drama Education, Special Education etc. It also functions as a forum for dialogue and exchange of ideas and actions from educational practice at all levels of Education and from any national context.

Papers related to the following fields show special interest for the journal:

- theory, practice and research for Religious Education at school and elsewhere in Greece and abroad
- religions in education
- methodologies of pedagogy/didactics and interdisciplinary dialogue
- philosophy, sociology and history of education
- theory and practice of the Curriculum
- educators/teachers and professional development
- humanities and education
- cultural theory-religion and pedagogy
- Religious Education and religious communities

Papers on Religious Education and teaching of all religions at any educational level within any national, international and transnational context are acceptable for peer review. The articles express the views of the author and not of the journal.

The journal is particularly interested in publishing articles after a peer review by two independent reviewers who evaluate the article without the author's / authors' names. The evaluation criteria relate to scientific excellence as well as the scientific and research interest of the article.

The text of the article is sent to the following e-mail addresses: info@gjre.gr, makoulia@theol.uoa.gr

Authors should follow the guidelines: TEMPLATE FOR ARTICLE FOR PEER REVIEW (www.gjre.gr)

The articles should be original, not published elsewhere, and range from 3000 to 6000 words. Upon initial receipt, the Editorial and Publishing Committee responds to the sender for non-acceptance if the article does not agree with the aim and scope and the fields or interests of the journal or publication, or the acceptance of the article and its assignment for "anonymous" evaluation in two additional reviewers.

First issue will be published in September 2018
